EXTRACT

Taken from Absent Friends by Alan Ayckbourn

These notes are intended to help you understand the context of the drama.

Alan Ayckbourn's play Absent Friends was first performed in England in 1974. The title refers to a well-known phrase 'to drink to absent friends'; in other words people who could not be present either through geographical separation, illness or even death. The title applies to the play in several ways: Colin has been literally 'absent' for three years, but we quickly see from the behaviour of the other three couples that 'friendship' is missing from their dysfunctional relationships.

Colin, an old friend of Paul, John and Gordon, has been away for three years, during which time he became engaged to Carol. Carol, however, drowned at sea two months before the action of the play begins. Diana (Paul's wife) has arranged for Colin to come to their house for tea as a means of cheering him up after his sad loss. She has also invited two other couples – John and Evelyn, and Gordon and Marge – since Colin, Paul, John and Gordon are all supposed to have been close friends.

Paul and Diana are the most financially successful of the couples, and the entire action takes place at the large, well-furnished house they have bought since they last saw Colin.

The extract consists of the whole of Act One.

ACT ONE

3 p.m. Saturday.

The open	plan living room of a modern executive-style house. Archways leading off to the kitch	nen and back doors. Another to the front door and bedrooms etc. Primarily

After a mo	oment, DIANA enters. She is older, mid to late thirties. She always gives the impres	ssion of being slightly fraught. She smiles occasionally but it's painful. Her unfounded

DIANA:	Have you got him to sleep?
EVELYN:	Yes.
DIANA:	[looking into the pram] Aaah! They look so lovely like that. Like little

EVELYN:	[unenthusiastic] Mmm.
DIANA:	Just like little angels. [Anxious] Should he be covered up as much as

EVELYN:	Yes.

DIANA:	Won't he get too hot?	25
EVELYN:	He likes it hot.
DIANA:	Oh. I was just worried he wasn't getting enough air.
EVELYN:	He's all right. He doesn't need much air.
DIANA:	Oh, well [She looks about her] Well, I think we're all ready for them.
	John's on his way, you say?	30
EVELYN:	Yes.
DIANA:	How is he these days? I haven't seen John for ages.
EVELYN:	He's all right.
DIANA:	I haven't seen either of you.
EVELYN:	We're all right.	35
DIANA:	Not for ages. Well, I'm glad you could come this afternoon. Colin really	00

EVELYN:	Oh.	40
DIANA:	Him and his squash. It used to be tennis - now he's squash mad.
	Squash, squash, squash. Can't see what he sees in it. All afternoon hitting a ball against a wall. It's so noisy. Bang, bang, bang. He's not even out of doors. No fresh air at all. It can't be good for him. Does John

EVELYN:	No.
DIANA:	Oh.
EVELYN:	He doesn't play anything.
DIANA:	Oh, well. He probably doesn't need it. Exercise. Some men don't. My much. He just used to sit and shout at we girls. Most of the time. He got calmer though when he got older. After my mother left him. [Looking into

EVELYN: No. 55 DIANA: Pretty. [Pause] No, there are times when I think that's the principal trouble between Paul and me. I mean, I know now I'm running myself down but Paul basically, he's got much more go - well, I mean let's face it, he's much cleverer than me. Let's face it. Basically. I mean, I was the bright one in our family but I can't keep up with Paul sometimes. When 60 he has one of his moods, I think to myself, now if I was really clever, I could probably talk him round or something but I mean the thing is, really and truly, and I know I'm running myself down when I say this, I don't think I'm really enough for him. He needs me, I can tell that; he doesn't say as much but I know he does. It's just, as I say, I don't think 65 I'm really enough for him. [She reflects] But he couldn't do without me. Make no mistake about that. He's got this amazing energy. I don't know where he finds it. He goes to bed long after me, he's up at dawn, working down here - then off he goes all day ... I need my eight hours, it's no good. What I'm saying is really, I wouldn't blame him. Not altogether. If 70 he did. With someone else. You know, another woman. I wouldn't blame him, I wouldn't blame her. Not as long as I was told. Providing I know, that I'm told - all right. Providing I feel able to say to people - "Yes, I am well aware that my husband is having an affair with such and such or whoever ... it's quite all right. I know all about it. We're both grown-up 75 people, we know what we're doing, he knows I know, she knows I know. So mind your own business." I'd feel all right about it. But I will not stand deception. I'm simply asking that I be told. Either by him or if not by her. Not necessarily now but sometime. You see. [A pause. EVELYN is expressionless] 80 I know he is, you see. He's not very clever and he's a very bad liar like most men. If he takes the trouble, like last Saturday, to tell me he's just going down the road to the football match, he might at least choose a day when they're playing at home. [She lifts the tablecloth and inspects the sandwiches] I hope I've made enough tomato. No, I must be told. 85 Otherwise it makes my life impossible. I can't talk to anybody without them ... I expect them, both of them, at least to have some feeling for me. [She blows her nose] Well. [The doorbell rings] Excuse me ... 90 [DIANA goes out] [Offstage dialogue] MARGE: Only me. DIANA: Marge! MARGE: I've been shopping, don't laugh! 95 DIANA: Leave your coat? MARGE: Oh yes! [Sound of shopping bags dropping and laughter] DIANA: How's Gordon? MARGE: Not too bad ... [Bustling in laden with bags] ... poor little thing - lying 100 there – with his face as white as a sheet ... [returning] Poor thing ... DIANA: MARGE: He looks dreadful ... Hallo, Evelyn. EVELYN: Hallo. MARGE: Oh! Look who's here! Little baby Walter. 105 EVELYN: Wayne. MARGE: What? EVELYN: It's Wayne. His name's Wayne.

DIANA:

[laughing] Walter ...

MARGE: DIANA: MARGE:	I thought it was Walter. Marge, honestly. You can't have a baby called Walter. Well, I don't know. Somebody must have done [She screams with laughter. Peering into the pram] Oh look. Look at his skin. It's a lovely	110
EVELYN: MARGE:	skin, Evelyn. Thank you. Beautiful skin. Hallo, Baby Wayne. Hallo, Wayne. Googy – googy –	115
DIANA: MARGE:	googy. Ssh, Marge, she's just got him to sleep. [quieter] Diggy diggy diggy. [Whispering] Lovely when they're asleep.
DIANA: MARGE: DIANA:	Yes [whispering] Looks like his Daddy. Looks like John. You don't have to whisper, Marge. Just don't shout in his ear.	120
MARGE: DIANA:	[back to her carriers etc.] Look at all this lot. I can't go anywhere. What have you got there?
MARGE: DIANA: MARGE:	You know what I'm like. You know me oh, guess what I did get? What? Are you ready?	125
DIANA: MARGE:	Yes. Brace yourself. I got the shoes.
DIANA:	You bought them?	130
MARGE:	Just now and I don't care. I passed the shop on the way here. I thought it's no good, I don't care, it's now or never, I'm going to have them, I must have them. So I got them.
DIANA:	I must see.
MARGE:	Just a minute. Gordon'll go mad [Rummaging] Now, which one did I put them in?	135
DIANA: EVELYN:	It is a shame about Gordon. Gordon's ill, Evelyn, he can't come. Oh.
MARGE:	No. He finally got it. It's been going round and round for months, I knew he'd get it eventually. He was perfectly all right last night, then he woke up this morning and he'd got it [Finding her shoe bag within another bag] Here we are [Finding something else] Oh – nearly forgot. That's for you.	140
DIANA:	For me?
MARGE:	It's only a little thing. But I saw one while I was in there and I knew you'd seen mine and wanted one	145
DIANA: MARGE:	Oh, yes [to EVELYN] It's a holder. For those paper towels in the kitchen. Paper towel holder. Have you got one?
EVELYN: MARGE:	No. Remind me, I'll get you one.	150
DIANA: MARGE:	That's so thoughtful. I must pay you for it. You'll do no such thing.
DIANA:	No, Marge, I insist. You're always buying us things.
MARGE:	I enjoy it. I like buying presents.	155
DIANA: MARGE:	[producing her purse] How much? I won't take it, put it away.
DIANA: MARGE:	How much was it? Diana, will you put that purse away this minute.
DIANA:	No, I'm sorry, Marge, I'm going to pay you.	160
MARGE:	Diana, will you put that away this minute. Evelyn, tell her to put it away [EVELYN, during this, has moved to the door and is on the point of going	100
DIANA:	out] [noticing her] You all right, dear?

EVELYN:	Fine.	165
DIANA:	Where are you off to then?
EVELYN:	To the lavatory.
DIANA:	Oh. I see. Beg your pardon.
	[EVELYN goes out]
	[selecting coins from her purse] £10. There you are. I don't know how	170 much it was but there you are.
MARGE:	Oh, really. [She leaves the money on the table]
DIANA:	Am I glad to see you.
MARGE:	Why's that?
DIANA:	She's been here for ages.	175
MARGE:	Who do you mean – oh, yes. Miss Chatterbox.
DIANA:	I know she's been up to something. I don't trust her. I never did.
MARGE:	I must show you my shoes. [Starts to unpack them] How do you mean?
DIANA:	I know that girl's been up to something.
MARGE:	Oh, you mean with?	180
DIANA:	She and Paul. I know they have.
MARGE:	Well [Producing a pair of very unsuitable shoes] There, you see.
	Aren't they nice?
DIANA:	Lovely.
MARGE:	They had them in blue which was nicer, actually. But then I had nothing	185 else that would have gone with them.
DIANA:	He didn't want them to come round here today. That's how I know they're up to something.
MARGE:	Who?
DIANA:	Evelyn and John. He didn't want them round.	190
MARGE:	Who? Paul didn't?
DIANA:	No.
MARGE:	[parading around in her shoes] Look, you see these tights aren't right with them but
DIANA:	I mean, why should he suddenly not want them round? They've been	195 round here enough in the past and then all of a sudden he doesn't want to see them.
MARGE:	Odd. There was another sort, you know, with the strap but I found they cut me across here.
DIANA:	They suit you.	200
MARGE:	Yes, I'm very pleased.
DIANA:	I tried to get her to say something.
MARGE:	Evelyn?
DIANA:	Just now.
MARGE:	Oh. Did she?	205
DIANA:	No. She's not saying anything. Why should she? I know Paul, you see. I know he's with someone. I'm sure it's her. He came home, went straight upstairs and washed his shirt through the other night. I said, what's got into you? He said, well, what's wrong with me washing my shirt? I said, you've never washed anything in your life. He said, well, we all have to	210 start some time. I said, lovely, but why do you want to start doing it in the middle of the night. And he had no answer to that at all. Nothing. He just stood there with it dripping all over the floor.
MARGE:	Well
DIANA:	After twelve years, you get to know someone.	215
MARGE:	I wonder if these will go with that other coat.
DIANA:	What's she doing up there?
MARGE:	Well, she's
DIANA:	I bet she's having a really good snoop around.

MARGE: DIANA:	Oh, Di I bet that's what she's up to. I've never trusted her an inch. She's got one	220
MARGE: DIANA:	of those really mean little faces, hasn't she? Well I bet it was her that went off with my scarf, you know.
MARGE: DIANA:	I shouldn't think so. Why don't you talk it over with Paul? Paul? We haven't talked for years. Not really. Now he's had his own way and sent the children off to school, there's even less to talk about. I don't know why he wanted them at boarding school. They're neither of them	225
MARGE: DIANA: MARGE:	happy. I know they're not. You should see the letters they write. I don't know what to say [to pram] Poogy, poogy. Hallo, Walter. Wayne. Hallo.	230
DIANA:	Don't for God's sake wake him up. He's been bawling his head off half the afternoon. I don't think she feeds him properly.
MARGE: DIANA: MARGE:	He looks nice and chubby. It doesn't look all there to me. Di!	235
DIANA: MARGE:	No, truthfully, you look at its eyes. He's asleep.
DIANA:	Well, you look at them when it wakes up. Don't tell me that's normal. I mean, our Mark's were never like that. Nor were Julie's. And she's had to wear glasses.	240
MARGE:	She looks lovely in her little glasses.
DIANA: MARGE:	Paul doesn't think so. He won't let her wear them when she's at home. Well, I think he's a lovely baby. I was on at Gordon again the other day about adopting one.	245
DIANA:	What did he say?
MARGE:	Still no. He won't hear of it. He's frightened of it, I think. He keeps saying to me, it's not like a dog, Marge. We can't get rid of it if we don't like it and I say, we will like it, we'll grow to like it and then he says, well what happens if we adopt one and then it grows up to be a murderer? Then what do we do? They'll blame us.	250
DIANA:	It's not very likely.
MARGE:	Try convincing him. No, he's just going to keep on going with his tests till the cows come home. That reminds me, I must ring him up. I said I would as soon as I got here. See if he's coping. Do you mind?	255
DIANA: MARGE:	No, go ahead. He's got the phone by his bed. [MARGE starts to dial]
	[EVELYN returns]	260
DIANA: EVELYN:	Find everything? Fine. [She checks the baby with a glance then sits and starts to read a magazine]
DIANA: EVELYN:	Marge is just phoning her husband. Oh.	265
MARGE: EVELYN:	[as she stands waiting for an answer, indicating her shoes] Do you like these, Evelyn? Fantastic.
MARGE:	[into phone] Hallo Jumjums? It's Margie, darling. How are you feeling oh oh. Well listen, Jumjums, can you manage to get across to the chest of drawers, sweetie? by the window, yes you'll find them in the top drawer that's right, darling can you manage that all right on your own right [Pause. To them] He wants the nose drops, he's all bunged up, poor love [She stands listening]	270

DIANA: EVELYN:	[to EVELYN] What are you chewing, dear? Gum.	275
DIANA:	Oh.
EVELYN:	Want a bit?
DIANA:	No thanks. We'll be having our tea soon.
MARGE:	[into phone] Oh, darling you must be careful, Jumjums yes, I know	280
	it shouldn't be there never mind, well rub it, rub it better. [Covering the phone, to the others] Banged his leg [into phone] All right? I'll be here if you want me. You know the number. I'll be home soon yes yes, I will.
	I'll phone you later. Bye bye, Jumjums, bye bye. darling. Bye. [Pause] Bye	225
	bye. [Pause] Bye. [Rings off] Honestly, I don't know what I want children	285
DIANA.	for, living with Gordon. I get through first aid tins like loaves of bread.
DIANA:	He's very unlucky, isn't he?
MARGE:	Oh, he is. He's so big, you see. I think that's one of his troubles. Being so big. Nothing's really made his size. He bangs his head on buses. He can't sit down in the cinema and he has trouble getting into his trousers.	290
	It's a terrible problem. Sixteen stone eight.	290
DIANA:	Yes, that is big.
MARGE:	It is, it's very big. His face is small but then he's got quite a small head. It's
Wir to L.	the rest of him. Somebody the other day said he looked like a polythene
	bag full of water. [She laughs]	295
	[DIANA laughs]
	Oh, dear, you have to laugh.
DIANA:	Poor Gordon. It's not fair.
MARGE:	He's all right. Bless him. Keeps me out of mischief.
	[They laugh]	300
	[A silence. They look at EVELYN who chews on, reading]
DIANA:	[with a look at MARGE] Enjoying that, are you?
EVELYN:	It's all right
MARGE:	Oh. I've still got these on. [She starts to change her shoes]
DIANA:	Be funny seeing Colin again. Three years.	305
MARGE:	I only knew him slightly. He was Gordon's friend really.
DIANA:	Yes. It's a pity he'll miss Colin.
MARGE:	What exactly happened to this fiancée of his? Did she just die? Drowned.
DIANA: MARGE:	Drowned, oh	310
DIANA:	In the sea.	310
MARGE:	Oh.
WITH TOL.	[Throughout the following MARGE follows DIANA's lips carefully echoing the odd word in agreement
DIANA:	We knew him very well, you know. He and Paul were inseparable. And	315
	then Colin's job moved him away and he used to write to us occasionally and then he wrote and said he'd met this Carol girl and that they were going to get married - which was a great surprise to us because we always said he'd never let anything get that far and then the next thing we heard, she'd drowned. So I said to Paul, we'd better invite him over.	320
	I mean, we're still his friends. I doubt if he's got any where he is now because it takes him ages to get to know people and then I thought, well, it might be awkward, embarrassing knowing what to say to him, just Paul and me and since he knew Gordon and you slightly and John – he	_ doesn't know Evelyn of course – I thought it would be nice if we just had	325
	a little tea party for him. He'll need his friends.
MARGE:	Well, you know me, I'm bound to say the wrong thing so shut me up or
DIANA:	I'll put my foot in it. Was she young? Who?
שותואל.	VVIIO:

MARGE: DIANA: MARGE:	His fiancée. Carol? About his age, I think. Oh. Tragic.	330
DIANA: EVELYN:	Yes. [Aware of EVELYN again] What are you reading, dear? Nothing.
DIANA: EVELYN:	No, what is it? [wearily turning back a page and reading flatly] Your happiness is keeping that man in your life happy. Twelve tips by a woman psychiatrist.	335
DIANA:	Oh.
MARGE:	We can all learn from that.
EVELYN:	[reading on remorselessly] Tip number one: send him off in the morning with a smile. How many of us first thing just don't bother to make that little extra effort. Have you ever graced the breakfast table without a comb through your hair. Go on, admit it, of course you have. You're only human. Or not done that little extra something to take the shine off your	340
	early morning nose. No wonder he escapes behind his paper	345
DIANA:	I must read that.
EVELYN:	[unstoppable] Go on, live a little and give him the surprise of his life.
DIANA:	Yes, that's lovely, Evelyn
EVELYN:	Make yourself into his news of the day. You'll live with him till the evening. Tip number two: go on, pamper yourself with a full beauty treatment.	350
DIANA:	Yes, thank you, Evelyn.
EVELYN: DIANA:	What? That's lovely. I'll read it later.
MARGE:	We can all learn something from that.
EVELYN:	I'm not doing that for my bloody husband. He can stuff it.	355
	[Pause]
MARGE:	I'd hate to drown. [Pause] I don't mind anything else. Poison, hanging, shooting – that's never worried me but I'd hate to drown. You look so awful afterwards.
DIANA:	Now, we mustn't get morbid. We're here to cheer Colin up when he comes. I know this all happened two months ago now but he's bound to be a bit down. We mustn't let him dwell on it.	360
MARGE:	No. You're quite right.
	[A silence. PAUL enters. He has on his track suit bottoms and a sweater. He has obviously been taking exercise]	365
PAUL:	[as he comes in] Have you seen my shoes anywhere? [Breaking off as he sees that they have company] Oh, hallo there.
MARGE:	Hallo, Paul.
EVELYN:	[barely glancing up] 'Llo.	070
PAUL:	Mothers' Meeting is it? How are you, Marge?	370
MARGE:	Very well, thank you.
PAUL: EVELYN:	How about you, Evelyn? Eh?
PAUL:	Keeping fit?
EVELYN:	Yes.	375
PAUL:	[looking into pram] What's in here then? Tomorrow's dinner?	070
EVELYN:	No.
PAUL:	Oh. I thought it was tomorrow's dinner.
DIANA:	Did you have a good game?
PAUL:	All right. So so. Not really. Dick didn't turn up. Had to play with this other fellow. Useless. Finished up giving him eight start and playing	380 left-handed. I still beat him. Then he fell over his racquet and broke his glasses so we called it a day. Trouble with that club is, you couldn't improve your game even if you wanted to. No competition. Lot of flabby old men.	385

EVELYN: PAUL: DIANA:	[without looking up] Hark at Mr. Universe. Watch it. [To DIANA] You seen my black shoes? Which ones?
PAUL:	The black ones.
DIANA:	They're upstairs.	390
PAUL:	Well, they weren't there this morning. How's Gordon?
MARGE:	He's not too good today, I'm afraid.
PAUL:	Not again.
DIANA:	What do you mean, not again?
PAUL:	He's always ill. Gordon.	395
MARGE:	Not always.
PAUL:	Hasn't been to work for two years, has he?
MARGE:	Course he has.
DIANA:	He's exaggerating.
PAUL:	He's a one man casualty ward. Why don't you get him insured, Marge? You'd clean up in a couple of days.	400
MARGE:	Get on
PAUL:	Right. I'll leave you ladies to it, if you don't mind. 'Bye. Look after yourselves. I've things to do upstairs.
DIANA:	Don't be too long, will you, dear?	405
PAUL:	How do you mean?
DIANA:	I mean, don't stay up there for too long.
PAUL:	No, I've just got a bit of work to do, that's all.
DIANA:	Well, tea will be in a minute. You'll be down for that.
PAUL:	No. You don't want me down here, I'll –	410
DIANA:	You must come down for tea. Colin's coming.
PAUL:	Colin who?
DIANA:	Colin. You know, Col –
PAUL:	Oh, that Colin. Is he?
DIANA:	Oh, don't be stupid. You know he is. I told you.	415
PAUL:	Did you?
DIANA:	I arranged it a fortnight ago.
PAUL:	You never told me.
DIANA:	And I reminded you this morning.
PAUL:	You didn't tell me.	420
DIANA:	This morning, I told you.
PAUL:	Excuse me, you did not tell me he was coming this morning. You did not
5.44.4	tell me anything this morning. I was out before you were up.
DIANA:	Well, then it must have been yesterday morning.	405
PAUL:	That's more likely. But you still didn't tell me.	425
DIANA:	I told you very distinctly.
MARGE:	Perhaps you just forgot, Paul.
PAUL:	No. I'm sorry I didn't forget. I never forget things. You're talking to the wrong man. I run a business where it's more than my life's worth to	400
MADOE.	forget things. I've trained myself not to. I never forget.	430
MARGE:	Well, I'm sorry I
PAUL:	Yes, all right. Just don't give me that "maybe you forgot" bit because with me it doesn't cut any ice at all
DIANA:	Look, Paul, will you stop taking it out on Marge for some reason	405
PAUL:	I'm not taking it out on anybody. Look, I've got a lot of work to do	435
DIANIA -	upstairs
DIANA:	Now, Paul, you can't do that. Colin is coming. He is your friend. You can't
DAI!!.	just go upstairs
Paul: Diana:	Excuse me, he is not a friend of mine. He was never a friend of mine How can you say that?	440

PAUL:	I just happened to know him, that's all. You'll just have to say to him when he comes that you're sorry, I had no idea he was coming, nobody told me and that I had a lot of work to do upstairs.
DIANA:	You cannot do that
PAUL:	I'm sorry	445
DIANA:	You've got no work to do.
PAUL:	That's it. No more. I'm not going on with it. I'm going upstairs. I don't .,	want to hear any more about it. I have a lot of work to do. Excuse me please.
	[PAUL goes out. A silence]	450
DIANA:	I told him Colin was coming. I told him over breakfast. While he was eating his cereal. I told him. He always does this. Every time I – [Tearful] I spent ages getting this ready.
MARGE:	It's all right, Di
DIANA:	It's not all right. He's always doing this. He does it all the time. I told him. Specially [She hurries out into the kitchen]	455
MARGE:	Oh dear. [EVELYN gives an amused grunt, ostensibly at her magazine]
	[MARGE looks at her]
EVELYN:	Evelyn, could I have a word with you? What?	460
MARGE:	I want you to answer me something perfectly honestly. I want you to be
WAITGE.	absolutely straight with me. Will you do that, please?
EVELYN :	What?
MARGE:	It's been brought to my notice that you and Paul have well	465
EVELYN:	What?
MARGE:	I think you know what I'm talking about.
EVELYN:	No.
MARGE:	That you and her husband have been is this true? Yes or no?
EVELYN:	Is what true?	470
MARGE:	Will you put that magazine down a moment, please.
EVELYN:	[laying the magazine aside wearily] Well?
MARGE:	Is it true or isn't it? Yes or no?
EVELYN:	What?
MARGE:	Have you been having a love affair with Paul?	475
EVELYN:	No.
MARGE:	Truthfully?
EVELYN:	I said no.
MARGE:	Oh. Well. That's all right then.	400
	[Pause]	480
EVELYN:	We did it in the back of his car the other afternoon but I wouldn't call that a love affair.
MARGE:	You and Paul did?
EVELYN:	Yes.
MARGE:	How disgusting.	485
EVELYN:	It wasn't very nice.	400
MARGE:	And you have the nerve to come and sit in her house
EVELYN:	She asked me. [Pause] She needn't worry. I'm not likely to do it again.
_ v	He'd just been playing squash, he was horrible.
MARGE:	Diana knows about this, you know.	490
EVELYN:	Then he must have told her. I didn't.
MARGE:	She's not a fool. She put two and two together. He didn't want you to come here at all this afternoon. That's a sure sign of a guilty conscience.
EVELYN :	Most probably because he doesn't like me very much.
MARGE:	He liked you enough to	495
EVELYN:	·

MARGE:	What did you say?
EVELYN:	I said thank you very much. That was as exciting as being made love to by a sack of clammy cement and would he kindly drive me home.
MARGE:	That wasn't a very nice thing to say.	500
EVELYN:	He's horrible.
MARGE:	What a thing to say.
EVELYN:	Horrible. Worse than my husband and that's saying a lot.
MARGE:	Poor John. God help him being married to you.
EVELYN:	Why?	505
MARGE:	Well. Really.
EVELYN:	They all think they're experts with women. None of them are usually. And by the time they are, most of them aren't up to it any more.
MARGE:	You speak for yourself.
EVELYN:	I am. I've tried enough of them to know. [She reads]	510
MARGE:	Your husband will catch up with you one of these days.
EVELYN:	He knows.
MARGE:	He knows!
EVELYN:	Nothing he can do.
MARGE:	Does he know about you and Paul?	515
EVELYN:	Probably. He's not going to complain.
MARGE:	Why not?
EVELYN:	Well – he relies on Paul for business, doesn't he? Without Paul, he's in
MADOE.	trouble. Business before pleasure, that's John's motto.	F00
MARGE:	Sounds as if it's yours as well.	520
EVELYN:	There's not much pleasure to be had round this place, is there?
MARGE:	I'm sorry, I find your attitude quite disgusting. Heartless, cruel and disgusting.
	[EVELYN ignores her and continues her reading]
	[at the pram] Poor little child. If only he knew. Poor little Walter. Googy,	525
	googy You're just a heartless little tart googy, googy.	020
EVELYN:	If you're interested, those shoes of yours are a lousy buy.
MARGE:	And what would you know about my shoes?
EVELYN:	I bought a pair. They split at the sides after two days and the dye comes off on your feet.	530
MARGE:	I've nothing further to say to you.
EVELYN:	Anyway, they're out of fashion.
MARGE:	I don't wish to listen to you any further.
	[Doorbell. They both wait]
	One of us had better answer that, hadn't we?	535
EVELYN:	Yes.
	[Doorbell]
MARGE:	I suppose it had better be me.
	[DIANA enters]
DIANA:	That was the doorbell, wasn't it?	540
MARGE:	Oh, was it? Yes, we thought we heard it.
DIANA:	What if it's Colin? I don't know what I'm going to say if it is
	[DIANA goes out]
MARGE:	You see what you've done.
EVELYN:	Beg your pardon?	545
MARGE:	To them. To Paul and her. See the atmosphere between them. All your doing.
EVELYN:	Me?
MARGE:	Who else?
EVELYN:	You really want to know who else?	550
MARGE:	I hope you realise that.

EVELYN:	If you really want to know who else, you'd better pass me the phone book. He's halfway through the Yellow Pages by now. If it moves, he's on to it.
	[JOHN enters. A jiggling, restless figure]	555
JOHN:	Hallo, hallo.
MARGE:	Hallo, John.
EVELYN:	You took your time.
JOHN:	It's only twenty past.
EVELYN;	You took your time.	560
JOHN:	[amiably] Yes. [He jigs about]
MARGE:	Where's Di gone to?
JOHN:	Dunno. Upstairs I think. [Sticking his head into the pram] Hallo, son. Say hallo to Daddy.
EVELYN:	Don't.	565
JOHN:	Eh?
EVELYN:	He's asleep.
JOHN:	He shouldn't be. He won't sleep tonight now.
EVELYN:	He never does anyway.
JOHN:	Keep him awake during the day, that's the secret. Shake his rattle in his	570
	ear every ten minutes.	0.0
EVELYN:	Fantastic.
JOHN:	Where's Paul?
MARGE:	Upstairs.
JOHN:	Oh. Both gone to bed, have they? [He laughs]	575
001114.	[MARGE glares at EVELYN]	070
	No Colin yet?
MARGE:	Not yet.
JOHN:	Well, I hope he hurries it up. Then we can get it over with.
EVELYN:	I thought he was supposed to be a friend of yours.	580
JOHN:	He was, yes.	300
EVELYN:	Sounds like it.
JOHN:	I haven't seen him for years. Anyway – I don't know what to say to him. I oorna.	didn't know this girl of his. I mean, it's difficult.
MARGE:	I don't think he'll want to talk about Carol.	585
JOHN:	No?	505
MARGE:	I shouldn't think so. He'll want to forget.
JOHN:	I hope so. I hate death. Gives me the creeps.
EVELYN:	Get on.
JOHN:	It does.	590
EVELYN:	You?	330
JOHN:	I get all uggghhh. [He shudders] Don't talk about it.
EVELYN:	[laughs] Death, death,
JOHN:	Shut up.
JOI IIV.	[EVELYN laughs]	595
	[Silence. MARGE takes out her knitting]	393
MARGE:	I hope they come down before he arrives
JOHN:	Disgraceful. On a Saturday afternoon. Whatever next. [Pause. He jigs
JOI IIV.	about some more] I got that fuel gauge.
EVELYN:	Oh.	600
JOHN:	£10 off it. [He laughs] It had a loose wire. I told the girl it was faulty. She	000
JOI IIV.	didn't know any better. £10. [Pause] Got a wing mirror for £5. Had a screw missing off it. Got one of those round the corner and he let me have some interior carpet for nothing. He was throwing it away. Not a bad day's work, eh?	605
EVELYN:		003
_ v _ L I I N .	MIVUL

JOHN: You're the one who wanted carpet in the car.

EVELYN:	Fine.
JOHN:	Can't do anything right, can I?
EVELYN:	I just know you. It won't fit when you get it in.	610
JOHN:	It'll fit.
EVELYN:	No, it won't because you got it cheap.
JOHN:	It'll fit.
EVELYN:	Nothing you ever get for us is quite right. I've got a vacuum cleaner with
_ ,	elastic bands holding on the attachments because you got them cheap	615
	off another model.	010
JOHN:	Oh, come on.
EVELYN:	I've got an electric mixer I can't use because it flings the food halfway up
101111	the bloody wall.
JOHN:	It's only because it's got the wrong bowl that's all. Only the bowl's wrong.	620
EVELYN:	Then why haven't we got the right bowl?
JOHN:	I'm trying to get hold of one. They're scarce.
EVELYN:	But it never did have the right bowl.
JOHN:	I know it didn't. How do you think I got it cheap in the first place?
EVELYN:	Oh, I give up. [She reads]	625
JOHN:	You're just a trouble maker you are. [He playfully shadow boxes near her face] Bam, bam
EVELYN:	Go away.
	[JOHN shadow boxes round the room]
	[DIANA returns]	630
JOHN:	Here she is. Had a good time up there?	000
MARGE:	Is Paul coming down?
DIANA:	I have no idea. I have no idea at all. I have done my best. I have now
DIANA.	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
	given up. Most probably it will be left to us. In which case, we'll have to	COF
IOLINI:	cope with Colin on our own, won't we?	635
JOHN:	Without Paul?
DIANA:	Apparently he's far too busy to see his so-called best friend.
JOHN:	If Paul's not going to be here, it's going to be a bit
DIANA:	Quite. What's that you're knitting, Marge?
MARGE:	Oh, just a sweater for Gordon.	640
DIANA:	Lovely colour.
MARGE:	Yes, I rather like it. I'm hoping he'll wear it to protect his chest. Once he goes out in that wind
JOHN:	How is old Gordon? Is he coming?
MARGE:	I'm afraid he's not very well at the moment.	645
JOHN:	Oh, dear. He's had this a long time, hasn't he?
MARGE:	Had what?
JOHN:	This – er food poisoning, wasn't it?
MARGE:	That was weeks ago. This is something quite different.
JOHN:	Oh. [He jigs about]	650
DIANA:	Would you like to take a seat, John?	000
JOHN:	No, it's all right, thanks. I don't like sitting down very much.
EVELYN:	Sit down, for heaven's sake.
	•
JOHN:	I don't like sitting down. I don't enjoy it.	055
EVELYN:	He'll never sit down. I don't think I've ever seen him sit down. He has his	655 meals dancing around the table.
JOHN:	I prefer standing up, that's all.
	[Pause. He jiggles]
DIANA:	[tense and shrill] John, will you please sit down before you drive me
	mad.	660
JOHN:	[sitting] Sorry. Sorry
DIANA:	I'm sorry.
JOHN:	No, it's me. I'm sorry.

DIANA: JOHN:	I'm sorry, John. No need to be sorry. That's all right.	665
EVELYN:	You'll never get him to sit still, I'll tell you that. [They sit. EVELYN sings, chews and reads. JOHN tries not to fidget.
	DIANA sits, staring ahead of her, steeped in worry. MARGE studies her
MARGE:	pattern] [at length] I think I've gone wrong with this. I've got twelve too many	670
WAITGE.	stitches. How the dickens did I get twelve too many stitches.	070
JOHN:	[At length, PAUL enters]
JOHN.	Hallo, hallo. He's arrived. [PAUL stands, surveying the room, making his presence felt. He sits]
PAUL:	Well. Here I am then.	675
DIANA:	So we see.	0/3
PAUL:	That's what you wanted, wasn't it?
DIANA:	I'm not so sure.
PAUL:	Well, make up your mind. I'll go upstairs again.
17102.	[Silence]	680
JOHN:	Paul, could we have a quick word about Eastfield, do you think?	000
PAUL:	Not just at the moment, if you don't mind.
JOHN:	It's just if I got your okay, I could go ahead with the order.
PAUL:	Look, I'm not in the mood to talk about Eastfield just at the moment,
.,	John. We're having this riotous tea party. Rude to talk business over tea.	685
	[He discovers the paper towel holder] What's this? Where did this come	000 from?
DIANA:	It's nothing. It's just a holder for the paper towel in the kitchen, that's all.
PAUL:	Is it ours?
DIANA:	Yes.	690
PAUL:	What have you gone and bought another one for?
DIANA:	I didn't.
PAUL:	I just put one up the other day. How many of the things do you want?
MARGE:	Oh well
PAUL:	[laughing to MARGE] Kitchen, knee deep in paper towels.	695
MARGE:	It's useful to have a spare.
	[Pause]
PAUL:	I don't know what we're going to talk to this fellow about, I'm sure. We haven't seen him for three years. I don't even know this girl's name.
DIANA:	Carol.	700
PAUL:	Well, that's something. I mean, I can't see what good this is going to do for him. Coming round here talking to us about it.
DIANA:	He probably won't want to.
PAUL:	Then what else is there to talk about? It's just embarrassing isn't it?
DIANA:	What's embarrassing? Somebody you've known for a long time loses	705 someone very dear to them. Seems natural to ask them round and
DALII	comfort them a little.
PAUL:	Fat lot of comfort he'll get here.
MARGE:	We can try. It'll only be for an hour.	- 4 0
JOHN:	As long as he doesn't start talking about death, I don't mind. If he starts	710
EVELVAL.	on about death or dying, I'm off.
EVELYN:	I don't know why you came.
JOHN:	Well – like Di says, it's – friendly.
EVELYN:	You don't like him.	71.
JOHN:	Colin? I didn't mind him.	715
EVELYN:	You said you didn't like him.
JOHN:	I didn't mind him. I didn't like him.
PAUL:	i uiuii tiike tiitti.

You went round with him enough. © UCLES 2012 0411/13/T/PRE/M/J/12

DIANA:

PAUL:	I did not.	720
DIANA:	You used to come round to our house every Friday and Saturday. You and him. We used to call you the flower pot men.
PAUL:	He used to follow me.
DIANA:	And Colin always went off with my sister Barbara and I was stuck with	725
PAUL:	you. Very funny.	725
DIANA:	It's true. We both fancied Colin really.
DI/ ((V/).	[JOHN and MARGE laugh again]
PAUL:	That is patently untrue. That is a lie.
DIANA:	I was only joking	730
PAUL:	If you want to know what it really was
DIANA:	I was joking.
PAUL:	If you really want to know
DIANA:	It was a joke.
	[PAUL subsides]	735
PAUL:	Anyway. Come to that, why do you think we both came round?
DIANA:	I don't doubt it.
PAUL:	Well.
DIANA:	You lost out then, didn't you?	740
PAUL:	So did you.	740
DIANA:	You said it, not me.
MARGE: DIANA:	Look, we really mustn't quarrel. I'm not quarrelling.
PAUL:	Neither am I.
MARGE:	I mean, Colin's not going to want this. He'll want to feel he's among	745
With the La	friends, not enemies.	7 10
EVELYN:	[in her magazine] This is a rotten story in here. This fellow's gone mad just because this girl's kissed him. Running about and singing.
MARGE:	I think that's meant to be romantic, Evelyn.
EVELYN:	They ought to put him away for good, if you ask me.	750
DIANA:	If you really fancied Barbara, I'm surprised you didn't go off with her. You had the chance.
PAUL:	Forget I said it.
DIANA:	I mean, why didn't you?
PAUL:	Would you all please witness I did not start this conversation?	755
DIANA:	Answer me that.
PAUL:	You are all witnesses, thank you.
DIANA: PAUL:	If you fancied her that much Oh, God.
DIANA:	Never mind. You're making up for it now, aren't you?	760
PAUL:	What do you mean by that?	700
MARGE:	Now, Di
DIANA:	I said, you're making up for it now, aren't you, dearest? With your other little
MARGE:	Why don't we all have a cup of tea now? Wouldn't that be a nice idea?	765
	[The phone starts ringing]
PAUL:	No. I want that last remark explained if you don't mind.
MARGE:	Now, Paul, Paul
DIANA:	Never mind.
PAUL:	All my other what?	770
MARGE:	[standing between them, arms outstretched] Now, Di Paul
DIANA:	You know.
JOHN:	Should I answer that?
PAUL:	All my other what? I want to hear the rest of that sentence.	 _
DIANA:	You know perfectly well what I'm talking about.	775

MARGE: JOHN: PAUL:	Di Paul I'll answer it, shall I? I have not the slightest idea what you're talking about, I'm sorry.
DIANA:	[pointing at EVELYN] Well, I'm sure she has. Ask her then.
MARGE:	Di Paul	780
EVELYN:	Eh?
JOHN:	[who has answered the phone] Hallo. Could you speak up please.
DIANA:	Yes, you. Don't you sit there looking so innocent and smug. I know all about you.
PAUL:	What are you dragging Evelyn into this for?	785
JOHN:	Oh, hallo Gordon. [to MARGE] It's Gordon.
MARGE:	Gordon. Oh, my God. [She snatches the phone from him]
DIANA:	If anyone has dragged Evelyn into this, it's you.
MARGE:	Hallo, Jumjums.
DIANA:	You're the one who's dragged her in, literally.	790
MARGE:	My darling, what is it?
PAUL:	I don't know what you're talking about. Will somebody kindly tell me what she's talking about.
MARGE:	He's spilt his cough mixture in his bed.
DIANA:	You know bloody well what I'm talking about. I'm talking about you and	795 her.
MARGE:	Has it sunk through to the mattress, love?
EVELYN:	I'm going home.
DIANA:	Yes, you go home, you little tart.
PAUL:	Oh, no you don't. You stay where you are, Evelyn. If she says things like	800 that, she's got to prove them.
DIANA:	I don't have to. I know.
EVELYN:	Goodbye.
JOHN:	We can't go now. Colin's coming.
EVELYN:	To hell with him.	805
PAUL:	She's just hysterical.
MARGE:	Can you try and sleep on the dry side until I get back?
PAUL:	The woman's hysterical. Now listen, Di
DIANA:	[screaming] Don't come near me.
MARGE:	Oh no. Have you got it on your 'jamas as well?	810
	[The baby starts crying]
EVELYN:	[furious] You've woken him up now.
JOHN:	I didn't wake him up.
PAUL:	I mean, seriously, how can a man live with a woman like that?
MARGE:	Jumjums, how did you get it on your trousers well, look, take them off,	815
	dear. Take the bottoms off.
JOHN:	Where are you going?
EVELYN:	[starting to push the pram out] I'm taking him home.
JOHN:	Oh, Evelyn
PAUL:	I mean, am I unreasonable?	820
MARGE:	There's some more in the bottom drawer. The stripy ones.
JOHN:	[calling after her] Evelyn.
MARGE:	Yes, well, you will be sticky. You'll have to wash.
	[Doorbell]
DIANA:	How can you stand there looking so damned innocent	825
PAUL:	Listen, if you could tell me what I'm being accused of, I could perhaps
- 	answer you.
	[Doorbell]
JOHN:	I think that's the doorbell.
MARGE:	No, keep warm, Jumjums, keep warm	830

	[EVELYN re-enters with the pram, baby still crying]
JOHN:	What are you doing?
EVELYN:	I can't get out that way. There's somebody at the front door.
DIANA:	Get out of my house.
EVELYN:	I'm trying to.	835
MARGE:	Bye bye, darling.
JOHN:	It'll be Colin.
MARGE:	Bye.
PAUL:	Colin?
EVELYN:	I'm taking Wayne in the garden.	840
MARGE:	Bye. [She hangs up]
JOHN:	Don't go home, Evelyn.
PAUL:	Now listen, Di, Marge
EVELYN:	[as she goes out] I can't, can I?
	[EVELYN goes out to the kitchen with the pram]	845
MARGE:	He has spilt cough mixture not only on the sheet, but on the pillow.
	[Doorbell]
PAUL:	Would you listen a minute?
MARGE:	his clean pyjama bottoms
PAUL:	Marge, please. Would you mind? Di, get a grip on yourself, Di.	850
DIANA:	What?
PAUL:	Colin is here now at the door.
DIANA:	Oh no.
	[DIANA runs out to the kitchen]
PAUL:	Di	855
MARGE:	Shall I let him in?
PAUL:	Would you mind, Marge. You seem to be the calmest among us.
MARGE:	I am not calm, believe me. That linctus will have gone through that undersheet straight into that mattress. [As she goes] I don't know how
	I'm going to get it out, I don't.	860
	[JOHN and PAUL are left]
	[PAUL pacing. JOHN jiggling]
PAUL:	Did you tell her?
JOHN:	Who?
PAUL:	Di.	865
JOHN:	What about?
PAUL:	About Evelyn and me.
JOHN:	I didn't. Why should I? I mean, as we said, it was just one of those things, wasn't it?
PAUL:	Right.	870
JOHN:	Wouldn't happen again.
PAUL:	Certainly wouldn't.
JOHN:	There you are. We'd settled it, hadn't we?
PAUL:	Did Evelyn tell Di?
JOHN:	I don't think so.	875
PAUL:	Can't see why she would.
JOHN:	No reason at all. Just one of those things, wasn't it? I'm not bitter. It was a bit of a shock when she told me. But I'm not bitter.
PAUL:	Somebody told her
	[MARGE ushers in COLIN]	880
MARGE:	Here he is.
COLIN:	Paul.
PAUL:	Colin, my old mate, how are you? [he embraces him]
COLIN:	Great to see you, John
JOHN:	[shaking his hand] Hallo, Col.	885
COLIN:	Oh, it is good to see you both. How are you?

PAUL: JOHN: COLIN:	Great. Fine. Where are the girls then, where are the girls?
PAUL:	Oh – er – Di's just out in the kitchen there.	890
COLIN:	Doing her stuff?	000
PAUL:	Yes, more or less. And – er – Evelyn's with the baby.
COLIN:	Hey, yes. You've got a baby.
JOHN:	Right.
COLIN:	Boy or girl?	895
JOHN:	Boy. Wayne. Four months.
COLIN:	Fantastic. That's what you always wanted, didn't you? I always remember that. When the four of us used to get together, you know, you, me, Gordon, Paul – what was it Gordon wanted to be, a cricketer, wasn't it? – you always used to say, I just want to get married and have a son.	900
JOHN:	Right.	300
COLIN:	Fantastic. Congratulations. Sorry to hear about Gordon, Marge. He's ill,
OOLIIV.	you say?
MARGE:	I'm afraid so.
COLIN:	Poor Gordon, he has all the luck. He wasn't feeling too good when I left,	905 was he? That's right. He was sick at the farewell party.
MARGE:	Something he ate.
COLIN:	[laughing, to the others] Out of me way, out of me way. Do you remember. We were all sitting there, quietly talking and then, out of me way, out of me way. Rushing about the room, everybody scattering for cover. He	910 flings open the door and throws up in the broom cupboard. [He laughs] Nothing serious, I hope?
MARGE:	No, no. He always looks worse than he is. [With a laugh] I don't think
	he's quite at death's door yet. [Pause]	915
COLIN:	Good.
MARGE:	l'II – see you in a minute.
COLIN:	Right.
	[MARGE goes to the kitchen] This is all right, this place, isn't it? Very nice indeed. How long have you	920
	had this, Paul?	920
PAUL:	Oh, nearly two years.
COLIN:	Now we know where the money's going. I'd settle for this. Wouldn't you,
3 3 2 t.	John? Yes, I'd settle for this.
JOHN:	Yes.	925
PAUL:	You want to sit down?
COLIN:	Thanks. [He sits] Very nice.
PAUL:	How are you feeling?
COLIN:	Oh, pretty fair. Lost a bit of weight lately, that helps.
JOHN:	Yes.	930
PAUL:	Col? [Offers a cigar]
COLIN:	No thanks.
	[PAUL takes one, as an afterthought he throws one to JOHN who
101111	catches if]
JOHN:	Thanks Paul.	935
COLINI	[Pause]
COLIN: JOHN:	What's your wife's name again, John, I forget? Before I meet her. Evelyn.
JOITIN.	[JOHN clicks his lighter intermittently in an effort to make it work]
COLIN:	Evelyn. That's it. Di did write and tell me. I forgot. Sorry.	940
JOHN:	That's okay. I forget it myself sometimes. [COLIN laughs]	340

COLIN: JOHN: COLIN:	She's not local though, is she? No. She's got relatives. Ah. Will I approve, do you think?	945
JOHN:	Eh?	0.0
COLIN:	Do you think I'll approve of her?
JOHN:	Well, yes. Hope so.
COLIN:	She all right, is she, Paul?
PAUL:	Eh?	950
COLIN:	This Evelyn of his? Has he done all right for himself would you say?
PAUL:	Oh, yes he's done all right.
COLIN:	John could always pick them.
PAUL:	Yes.	0.5.5
	[Pause]	955
MARGE:	[MARGE enters with mats for the teapot and hot water jug] [whispering with embarrassment] Excuse me. We're just brewing up. Now, Di wants her handbag a minute. Is it? Oh yes. Won't be a minute.
001.101	[She goes out]
COLIN:	She hasn't changed.	960
PAUL:	No.
COLIN:	We used to have a name for her, didn't we? When Gordon first took her out.
PAUL:	Can't remember.
COLIN:	It was can you, John?	965
JOHN:	No. Something. I can't remember.
PAUL:	No.
COLIN:	It was a beetle or a spider or something. I'll remember, it'll come to me. [Pause]
JOHN:	You're looking well, Col.	970
COLIN:	I feel well.	0,0
JOHN:	You look it.
	[Pause]
COLIN:	I'm not early, am I?
PAUL:	No, no	975
JOHN:	No.
	[Pause]
COLIN:	Yes. You've certainly done all right for yourself, haven't you, Paul?
PAUL:	Now and again.
JOHN:	Everything he touches.	980
COLIN:	I bet. You two still fairly close, I take it?
JOHN:	Oh well, you know. When our paths cross. We do each other the odd favour.
PAUL:	Generally one way.
JOHN:	Oh, come on.	985
PAUL:	Usually.
JOHN:	Yes, usually. Not always, but usually.
PAUL:	He's still the worst bloody salesman in the country. I'm the only one who'll buy his rotten stuff. I've got about five hundred tins of his rubbish. I can't give it away.	990
COLIN:	What is it?
PAUL:	Cat food. So called. That's what they call it. I've never met a cat yet who
001	could eat it and live. Rubbish. I wouldn't give it to a dog.
COLIN:	You could try it on Gordon.
JOHN:	No, seriously for a moment, Paul, that's what I wanted to talk to you	995 about. That particular line of ours isn't selling so well. It isn't so much
DALII .	content, it's packaging. Now, they have just brought out this new line
PAUL:	Go on. They've discovered the antidote.

JOHN: PAUL: JOHN: PAUL:	[COLIN laughs] No, seriously, Paul. Not now. No, seriously, one word	1000
JOHN: MARGE:	Seriously, John, no. He'll be sorry. [MARGE returns] [in the same embarrassed whisper, as before] Excuse me a minute. Just want to fetch my comb. For Di. Now where did I? Oh yes.	1005
COLIN: MARGE: COLIN:	[She finds her own handbag and bends and rummages in it. The men watch her] The stick insect. [startled] What? Nothing.	1010
MARGE:	[The men laugh] [puzzled, waving the comb] We won't be a minute. This is for Di. A comb. For her hair. Excuse me. [MARGE goes out] Still at the bank, Colin?	1015
COLIN: PAUL: COLIN:	Yes. Still at the bank. That's what I like to hear. Yes. [Pause]	1020
PAUL: COLIN: PAUL: COLIN:	[rising] Look, I think I'll just go and see if I can sort them out there. Give them a hand. Excuse me. Of course. Won't be a sec. Right.	1025
COLIN:	[PAUL goes out to kitchen] [JOHN and COLIN rise. They sit. They rise and meet in front of the table, laugh. They sit, COLIN back in chair, JOHN on pouffe. They rise. COLIN looks at picture behind bar] GREAT!	1030
JOHN: DIANA:	TERRIFIC! [COLIN looks at toy on bar, as JOHN leaves for kitchen. COLIN turns, sees he is alone, and sits back in chair] [Everyone returns. DIANA with handbag. PAUL with teapot followed by JOHN. MARGE with hot water jug. EVELYN from the garden] Hallo, Colin, I'm so sorry.	1035
COLIN: PAUL: JOHN:	Hallo, Di. [They kiss] Back again. [following PAUL round and under the other dialogue] No, the point I'm saying is, that if I were to knock off five percent and sell the stuff to him for that much less, we could still net a profit of not less than what? – five	1040
	twenties are a hundred – five eights are forty – less what? – three fives are fifteen – a hundred and twenty five percent. That's an initial outlay – including transport, of what? – four nines are thirty six – plus, say, twenty for handling either end – that's fifty six. Bring it to a round figure – sixty	1045
DIANA:	[PAUL, throughout this, nods disinterested agreement, his mind on other things. Over this:] It was so nice you could come. It really was. Now you know Marge, of course, don't you?	1050
COLIN: DIANA: COLIN:	Yes, yes. Oh, but you don't know Evelyn. This is John's Evelyn. How do you do.

COLINI. I loowed a lot about your COLIN: Heard a lot about you. EVELYN: Oh yes? Who from?
COLIN: Er
DIANA: Sit down, Colin. Let me give you some tea. Sit down, everyone. [To JOHN who is grinding on to PAUL] John dear, do sit down.	1060
JOHN: Oh yes, sorry.
[Everyone sits. DIANA pours tea] COLIN: Do you work at all, Evelyn, or does the baby take up all your time?
EVELYN: No.
COLIN: Ah.	1065
JOHN: She works some days.
COLIN: Oh yes, where's that?
EVELYN: Part-time cashier at the skating rink. COLIN: Oh. Is that interesting?
EVELYN: No.	1070
COLIN: Ah.	1070
DIANA: Could you pass these round, Paul? I remembered you liked it strong,
Colin.
COLIN: Oh, lovely.
[Pause]	1075
MARGE: Oh! Guess who I saw in the High Street?
DIANA: Who? MARGE: Mrs Dyson. Grace Dyson.
MARGE: Mrs Dyson. Grace Dyson. DIANA: Oh, her.
MARGE: I was surprised. She looked well.	1080
DIANA: Good.	7000
PAUL: Who's Grace Dyson?
MARGE: Oh well, you'd know her as Grace Follett probably.
PAUL: I don't think I know her at all.
JOHN: Remember Ted Walker, Colin?	1085
COLIN: Ted Walker? Oh, Ted Walker, yes. Of course, yes.
JOHN: He's still about. DIANA: You like yours fairly weak, don't you, Marge?
MARGE: Yes, please. But don't drown it.
[A silence]	1090
COLIN: Do you know what my biggest regret is?
DIANA: What's that, Colin?
COLIN: That none of you ever met Carol.
MARGE: Who?	1005
COLIN: Carol. My ex-fiancée. She was drowned, you know. MARGE: Oh, ves, ves. I know, I know.	1095
MARGE: Oh, yes, yes. I know, I know. COLIN: I wish you'd met her.
DIANA: Yes. [A pause] I think I can speak for all of us, Colin, when I say how very sorry we were to hear about your loss. As I hope you'll realise, we're your friends and - well - and although we didn't know Carol - none of	1100 us had the pleasure of meeting her – we feel that in a small way, your grief is our grief. After all, in this world, we are all to some extent – we're all – what's the word?
PAUL: Joined DIANA: No.	1105
JOHN: Related.	1100
MARGE: Combined.
DIANA: No. Dependent.
PAUL: That's what I said.
DIANA: No you didn't, you said joined or something.	1110

PAUL:	It's the same thing. Joined, dependent, means the same.
DIANA:	We are all dependent in a way for our own – and, well no, I'm sorry
	I've forgotten what I was going to say now, I hope you understand what I
COLINI	meant, anyway.	1115
COLIN: DIANA:	Thank you.	1115
DIANA.	[embarrassed and relieved] Oh well, that's got that over with, anyway. I
MARGE:	mean – more tea, anyone? Give us a chance.
MANGE.	[A silence]
	[COLIN suddenly slaps his knees and springs to his feet. Everyone jolts]	1120
	What's the matter?	1120
COLIN:	Wait there, wait there.
002	[COLIN rushes out to the front door]
DIANA:	[in a shocked whisper] Where's he gone?
PAUL:	I don't know.	1125
MARGE:	Is he all right?
DIANA:	I didn't upset him, did I, saying that?
MARGE:	No. Lovely.
JOHN:	I'll have a look, shall I?
DIANA:	Would you, John.	1130
PAUL:	What did you want to get on to that for?
DIANA:	What?
PAUL:	All that going on about grief and so on.
DIANA:	I only said
PAUL:	We're supposed to be cheering him up. He didn't want to listen to that.	1135
DIANA:	It had to be said.
MARGE:	You have to say it.
PAUL:	He obviously didn't want to be reminded of it, did he? There was no
DIANIA	need to, no need at all. We were all getting along perfectly happily. You can't sit here and not say anything about it.	1140
DIANA:	[JOHN returns]	1140
JOHN:	He's gone out the front door.
DIANA:	Where to?
JOHN:	His car, I think. He's getting something out of the boot.
PAUL:	Probably going to hang himself with his tow rope. After what she said.	1145
DIANA:	He seemed perfectly recovered. Very cheerful. I thought someone should say something.
PAUL:	Cheerful? You can see that was only skin deep.
DIANA:	I couldn't.
PAUL:	I was talking to him in here. You could tell. He's living on his nerves. On a	1150 knife edge. You could tell, couldn't you, John?
JOHN:	He seemed quite cheerful.
PAUL:	He could snap like that. Any minute. Same with anyone in this situation.
IOLINI	Up one minute	4455
JOHN:	I've never seen him quite so cheerful.	1155
PAUL:	Exactly. All the signs are there. The last thing he wanted to do was to talk
MARGE:	about this fiancée of his. It's a known fact, people never Oh yes, they do. My Aunt Angela
PAUL:	It is a known fact
I AOL.	[Slight pause]	1160
	[Door bangs]	7700
JOHN:	He's coming back.
PAUL:	Now, not another word about her. Keep it cheerful. For goodness sake,
	Evelyn, try and smile, just for once.
	[COLIN returns. He carries a photo album and an envelope of loose	1165
	snapshots, all contained, at present, in a large chocolate box]

ALL: COLIN:	Ah [breathless] Sorry. I forgot to bring these in. It's some photos. You can see what she looked liked.
DIANA: COLIN:	Of her? Yes. I thought you'd like to.	1170
MARGE: COLIN:	Oh. Yes. There's one or two quite good ones. Thought you might like to see some. Of course, if you'd rather
PAUL: COLIN:	No, no She was very photogenic. Shall I sit here next to you, Di? Then I can [He sits next to DIANA] Now then. [Taking snaps from the envelope] Ah yes, these are some loose ones I haven't stuck in yet. They're the most	1175
MARGE:	recent. Can I give those to you, Marge? I think they're mostly on holiday, those. [He hands loose snapshots to MARGE] Thank you.	1180
COLIN: MARGE:	[with the album] These are mostly at home in the garden at her house. Oh, is this her? Oh, she is lovely, Colin. Wasn't she?
DIANA: COLIN: DIANA:	[as COLIN opens the first page] Oh. There she is again. That's with her Mum. She's a fine looking woman too.	1185
COLIN: DIANA: MARGE:	Wonderful. She's been really wonderful. She's got this terrible leg. Ah. Oh, that's a nice one Do you want to pass them round, John?
JOHN:	Oh yes, sure. [MARGE passes them to JOHN who in due course passes them to PAUL who passes them to EVELYN]	1190
DIANA: COLIN: DIANA: COLIN:	That's nice. Was that her house? No. That's the back of the Natural History Museum, I think. I was going to say Went there at Easter.	1195
MARGE: JOHN: COLIN: MARGE:	Oh look, John, with her little dog, see? Oh yes. That was her mother's. Oh. Sweet little dog.	1200
EVELYN: COLIN:	I like that handbag. That's her again. Bit of a saucy one. It's not very good though, the sun's the wrong way.	1205
DIANA: MARGE: DIANA:	I wish I had a figure like that. It's so nice you brought them, Colin. Oh yes. It's nice, too, that you can look at them without – you know
COLIN: MARGE: COLIN:	Oh no, it doesn't upset me. Not now. That's wonderful. I was upset at the time, you know.	1210
DIANA: COLIN:	Naturally. But – after that – well, it's a funny thing about somebody dying – you never know, till it actually happens, how it's going to affect you, I mean, we all think about death at some time, I suppose, all of us. Either our death, somebody else's death. After all, it's one of the few things we	1215
DIANA:	have all got in common [JOHN has risen and is jiggling about] Sit down, John. [JOHN sits reluctantly]	1220

COLIN:

And I suppose when I first met Carol, it must have passed through my mind what would I feel like if I did lose her. And I just couldn't think. I couldn't imagine it. I couldn't imagine my life going on without her. And then it happened. All of a sudden. One afternoon, All over. She 1225 was caught in this under-current, there was nothing anybody could do. I wasn't even around. They came and told me. And for about three weeks after that, I couldn't do anything at all. Nothing. I just lay about thinking, remembering and then, all of a sudden, it came to me that if my life ended there and then, by God, I'd have a lot to be grateful for. I 1230 mean, first of all, I'd been lucky enough to have known her. I don't know if you've ever met a perfect person. But that's what she was. The only way to describe her. And I, me, I'd had the love of a perfect person. And that's something I can always be grateful for. Even if for nothing else. And then I thought, what the hell am I talking about, my whole life's been 1235 like that. All through my childhood, the time I was growing up, all the time I lived here, I've had what a lot of people would probably give their right arm for - friends. Real friends, like John and Paul and Gordon and Di. So, one of the things I just wanted to say, Di – Paul – Marge – John - Evelyn and to Gordon if he was here, is that I'm not bitter about what 1240 happened. Because I've been denied my own happiness, I don't envy or begrudge you yours. I just want you to know that, despite everything that happened, in a funny sort of way, I too am very happy. [He smiles round at them serenely. A silence. A strange whooping noise. It is DIANA starting to weep hysterically. Unable to contain herself, she 1245 rushes out. After a moment. MARGE fumbles for her handkerchief and blows her nose loudly. JOHN, looking sickly, gives COLIN a ghastly stands looking slightly bemused. He looks at EVELYN. She looks back smile. PAUL opens his mouth as if to say something, gives up. COLIN

1250

COLIN: Did I say the wrong thing?

[EVELYN shrugs and resumes her reading]

at him, expressionless, chewing
